

Gold

Energy & Tech Stocks

Weekly Hotline Message (Now in our 39th Year) September 4, 2020

Precipitate Gold Corp. (106.2 million shares @ C$0.32 = C$34 million market cap) is one story I'm really keeping an eye on because I think its Ponton Property in the Dominican Republic is highly prospective. The company has been doing all the usual mapping, sampling, geochemical, and geophysical work to establish drill sites. Some very strong recent grab samples on that property, like 17 g/t gold and 53 g/t gold, have recently been reported. I spoke with the company's President Jeff Wilson this week and he tells me he expects to have set their drill targets up within the next couple of weeks and, depending on the turnaround for permitting from the new pro-mining government, he is hopeful of starting to drill in October-November timeframe.

Then there is the Pueblo Grande, which is located next to Barrick's world-class Pueblo Viejo Mine. Barrick has an option to earn 70% of that project by spending $10 million on exploration. It is expected to start drilling this fall so there could be some positive news there as well. And with a pro-mining government now having been elected, there is some hope that the Romero Mine owned by GoldQuest could be revived. Precipitate's Juan de Herrera Project, which has had a considerable amount of work carried out before the prior government turned hostile to mining, may start to get a new life breathed into it as well. Not only is there a pro-mining government in the country but the COVID-19 has stripped the Dominican Republic of its tourism income which had been a major source of wealth for this island nation. There is no super need to buy this stock right now. But I do want to keep it on my radar and yours because it is a stock that hasn't moved yet but I think has a huge amount of exploration upside.

Then there is the Pueblo Grande, which is located next to Barrick's world-class Pueblo Viejo Mine. Barrick has an option to earn 70% of that project by spending $10 million on exploration. It is expected to start drilling this fall so there could be some positive news there as well. And with a pro-mining government now having been elected, there is some hope that the Romero Mine owned by GoldQuest could be revived. Precipitate's Juan de Herrera Project, which has had a considerable amount of work carried out before the prior government turned hostile to mining, may start to get a new life breathed into it as well. Not only is there a pro-mining government in the country but the COVID-19 has stripped the Dominican Republic of its tourism income which had been a major source of wealth for this island nation. There is no super need to buy this stock right now. But I do want to keep it on my radar and yours because it is a stock that hasn't moved yet but I think has a huge amount of exploration upside.

J Taylor's Gold, Energy & Tech Stocks (JTGETS), is published monthly as a copyright publication of Taylor Hard Money Advisors, Inc. (THMA), Tel.: (718) 457-1426. Website: www.miningstocks.com. THMA provides investment ideas solely on a paid subscription basis. Companies are selected for presentation in JTGETS strictly on their merits as perceived by THMA. No fee is charged to the company for inclusion. The currency used in this publication is the U.S. dollar unless otherwise noted. The material contained herein is solely for information purposes. Readers are encouraged to conduct their own research and due diligence, and/or obtain professional advice. The information contained herein is based on sources, which the publisher believes to be reliable, but is not guaranteed to be accurate, and does not purport to be a complete statement or summary of the available information. Any opinions expressed are subject to change without notice. The editor, his family and associates and THMA are not responsible for errors or omissions. They may from time to time have a position in the securities of the companies mentioned herein. No statement or expression of any opinions contained in this report constitutes an offer to buy or sell the shares of the company mentioned above. Under copyright law, and upon their request companies mentioned in JTGETS, from time to time pay THMA a fee of $250 to $500 per page for the right to reprint articles that are otherwise restricted solely for the benefit of paid subscribers to JTGETS.

To Subscribe to J Taylor's Gold, Energy & Tech Stocks Visit: <https://www.miningstocks.com/select/gold>